

Dr. Inston is a renal transplant and vascular access surgeon from Birmingham, UK. Graduated at the University of Nottingham in 1993 (BM BS). Awarded a BMedSci in 1991 for studies into endothelial derived relaxing factor (EDRF) and a PhD from Birmingham University in 2006 for studies into chemokines in renal transplant rejection. Continues with research and clinical trials in vascular access and has multiple publications in the field. Ex-president VASBI, currently council of VAS and faculty of many vascular access meetings and societies.